

In 2004 the Icknield Way Trail defined the route shown in blue. This largely uses a route open to vehicular traffic. The route in brown is more direct and keeps 'off road'. Brown route is definitive bridleway between the blue route and the roads (yellow), but near Ashridge management college it is a permissive bridleway following a definitive footpath which does not allow cycles. The Icknield Way Trail is a multi-user route suitable for walkers, horse riders and off road cyclists – walkers and horse riders may prefer the shorter brown route, but cyclists need to use the blue route.